

CREATIVE WRITING AFTER-SCHOOL CLASS

Spilling Ink: Build A Story Grades 2-5

Play your way to the page! Society of Young Inklings' unique methodology uses active improvisational games to inspire young writers in the creation of original stories. Students will explore the essential elements of story: character, setting, plot, beginnings, endings, conflict, word choice and sensory description. Each class is designed to inspire and challenge young writers based on their unique needs and skill level. During writing time instructors circulate to individualize the learning process for each student. Each young writer receives a workbook and journal. Students will develop, draft, and revise a creative short story. Writers will have an opportunity to share their masterpieces with family and friends on the last day of class.
